Hardy Perennial Plants

QUALITY

My plants are field grown; that is, they are grown out of doors from start to finish, and they have been in the field all winter. Consequently there is no question as to their hardiness, and they may be planted out as soon as the ground is dry enough, the earlier the better; late frosts will not harm them at all. They are unsurpassed in quality, having been grown from the best strains obtainable from European and American plantsmen. All plants sent out are of blooming size.

ROCK PLANTS

The plants marked (R) are especially suitable for rock gardens.

PLANTING DIRECTIONS

Description as to height, color and time of blooming, with planting directions, are attached to all plants sent out. If any further information is desired, I am always glad to answer any questions.

ANCHUSA

PER DOZ. PER 100

ITALICA. One of the finest blues we have in perennials. Grows from four to six feet high and blooms from May through most of the summer. Must have very deep, light soil and good drainage, and early staking..... $3.50

MYOSOTIDIFLORA. (R) An absolutely different plant both in foliage and flower from the foregoing. The handsome, large, dark green leaves are heart shaped and grow about a foot high. Early in the spring myriads of bright blue forget-me-not flowers appear. They continue for a long period but even after they are gone the plant remains beautiful because of the very ornamental foliage. It is absolutely hardy and does well in shade..... $5.00

ANTHEMIS TINCTORIA $2.50 $18.00

AQUILEGIA (Columbine)

The Columbines are the loveliest of spring flowers. In form and color and foliage they come as near to perfection as is possible. The clear, soft colors, the fine texture and exquisite shape of the flowers would put them in the front rank even without the added attraction of beautiful foliage. All the Columbines, even the tall growing kinds, are suitable for the rock garden because of their grace and delicacy. They do best in a sheltered, shady position and will remain in flower for most of the summer if they are not allowed to seed. The rich, heavy loam of Green Brook Gardens is especially suited to Aquilegia and I am making a specialty of it. Below are the best varieties to be had. All the plants will bloom this year.

MRS. SCOTT ELLIOTT'S LONG-SPURRED HYBRIDS. For years this strain has been considered the finest grown. It is the product of many years of work by an amateur, who, it is said, has given all her profits from it to charity. It comes only in mixed colors. $3.50 $25.00

AQUILEGIA (Cont.)

PER DOZ. PER 100

SUTTON'S LONG-SPURRED PINK SHADES. From the well known seedsmen, Sutton and Sons of Reading, England. Like everything else put out by this celebrated firm, they are unsurpassed in quality. $4.00 $30.00

SUTTON'S LONG-SPURRED BLUE SHADES. Companion to the above..... $4.00 $30.00

SUTTON'S LONG-SPURRED PURE WHITE. Companion to the above..... $4.00 $30.00

ALPINA. (R) The true species from the Alps of Switzerland. Ideal for the rock garden, growing about a foot high. The flowers are very large; the color is a beautiful soft dark blue. In his great book "My Rock Garden" Mr. Reginald Farrer says "Aquilegia Alpina is unquestionably the most beautiful plant of the European Alps. The loveliness of it simply takes you between the eyes and knocks you dizzy"..... $4.00 $30.00

MRS. NICHOLLS. An improved form of Aquilegia coerulea, the beautiful long-spurred Rocky Mountain Columbine. A glorious sky-blue flower with white cup. It used to be thought that A. coerula was short lived, but of late years it has been found that it needs acid soil for satisfactory growth. $5.00 $35.00

DOBBIE'S IMPERIAL HYBRIDS. A new strain of long-spurred Columbine sent out by Dobbie and Son of Edinburgh, Scotland. $5.00 $35.00

ASTER

PER DOZ. PER 100

ALPINUS. (R) Charming for the front of the border although it really belongs to the rock garden. One foot high. The flowers are a beautiful clear lavender and come in June. Needs sandy soil, a shady position and frequent division. $3.00 $20.00

NOVAE ANGLIAE "BARR'S PINK". There is nothing that will make more glorious sheets of color in September than will the hardy asters. The hybridists have done wonderful work with them of late years, and this is the finest of the recent introductions. It grows five feet high and makes a splendid bush smothered with large bright pink flowers all through September and October. Needs very rich soil, plenty of moisture and part shade, and must be divided every year. These are field grown clumps..... $5.00 $35.00

BOLTONIA..... $2.50 $18.00

CAMPANULA PERSICIFOLIA (Peach-leaved Bellflower)

All the many varieties of the Bellflowers are lovely, and this is the best of the tall growing kinds. These plants are grown from Ladham's Giant Hybrids, a new and very fine strain. They throw up stout stalks three to five feet high, in June covered with large bells varying from pale to deep lavender blue. They need rich loam with a good deal of lime, and frequent division. They do best in some shade. $3.00 $20.00

COREOPSIS 2.50 $18.00

DIANTHUS (Hardy Pinks)

All the pinks are delightful and easy to grow. They like rather heavy soil and sun, and they must have good drainage and shallow planting. To smother a pink is to kill it. They are all good rock plants.

PLUMARIUS $2.50 $18.00

DELTOIDES. (Maiden Pink) (R).... $2.50 $18.00

DIANTHUS (Cont.)

PER DOZ. PER 100

SUPERBUS. A very beautiful species, quite unlike the ordinary border pinks. From tufts of grass-like foliage the many flower stems rise to a height of two feet, covering the plant with clouds of the delicate lavender, deeply fringed flowers. Very fragrant. $3.00 $20.00

DIGITALIS (Foxglove)

In all the multitude of June blooming flowers, nothing is finer than the Foxgloves with their tall spires of beautiful bells. In their season they dominate the garden. They do best in rich loam and a shady protected place. Below are two exceptionally fine varieties. The plants are very large and will give splendid bloom this year.

LUTZ HYBRIDS. Vary from pale pink to deep rose; occasionally a real salmon pink, a color very rare in Foxgloves appears. $3.50 $25.00

PHYSOSTEGIA

PER DOZ. PER 100

(False Dragon Head) $2.50 $18.00

PLATYCODON MARIESII ALBA

(Chinese Bellflower—Balloon Flower)

One of the handsomest of border plants. The enormous flowers are a beautiful clear white and appear from July until frost. Rich loam and lime and a shady position suit it. It should not be moved after it is once planted, and care should be taken in the spring not to disturb it as it does not appear until long after every other plant is up.

$3.00 $20.00

POLEMONIUM COERULEUM

(Jacob's Ladder)

Pretty, fern like foliage and bright blue flowers in early spring. Needs good drainage, rich soil and part shade. Perfectly hardy but the crowns must not be smothered.

$3.00 $20.00

POTENTILLA (Cinquefoil)

(R) A charming plant, not as much known as it should be. The silvery foliage, very much like strawberry leaves, is pretty at all times, and the sprays of brilliant red flowers are equally attractive.

$3.50 $25.00

PYRETHRUM (Painted Daisy)

Fern like foliage and large daisy-shaped flowers in beautiful bright pink and rose colors, growing two feet high and blooming in May. They do well in rich, rather heavy loam and in shade. If well fertilized and not disturbed for several years they will grow into magnificent clumps. Never move in autumn, but divide in August, after they have flowered.

$3.00 $20.00

SCABIOSA

(Pincushion Flower—Blue Bonnet)

PER DOZ. PER 100

CAUCASICA. In the last few years this plant has been extraordinarily improved. The flowers are very lovely in soft shades of lavender, many with ruffled edges, large and borne on long sturdy stems. They bloom continuously from July until heavy frost. Their refinement of color and form and long keeping qualities make them one of the best flowers we have for cutting. They need good drainage, rather light soil, full sun and plenty of lime; also frequent division. $3.50 $25.00

JAPONICA. Handsome, finely cut foliage, and masses of lavender flowers very much like the annual scabious. $2.50 $18.00

(R) STATICE LATIFOLIA

(Sea Lavender) $3.00 $20.00

STOKESIA CYANEA

(Stoke's Aster) $3.00 $20.00

THALICTRUM ADIANTIFOLIUM

(Maidenhair Meadow Rue) $2.50 $18.00

VIRGINICA. Two feet tall. Spikes of dainty white flowers. $3.00 $20.00

VIOLA (Tufted Pansy)

The violas are remarkable for their beautiful colors and wonderful blooming capacity. From earliest spring until the very hot weather they are a continual sheet of bloom, beginning again in the autumn. It is not unusual to find some flowers all through the winter months. They must have very rich soil and moisture and be divided every year.

JERSEY GEM. The well known purple viola. My stock came from the originator, T. W. Weston, and is therefore absolutely true. $3.00 $20.00

SUTTON'S APRICOT. A beautiful soft bright apricot color. $3.00 $20.00
